

2010/09/29 23:39

To cpr@cedb.gov.hk

cc

bcc

Subject Public Consultation on Legislation to Enhance Protection for Consumers Against Unfair Trade Practices Urgent Return receipt Sign Encrypt

dear government,

i hate lying and cheating retailers who cheat members of the public.

such retailers should have their trading licence revoked after being found guilty of 1 offence. they should never be allowed to operate a retail store in hong kong ever again.

also there should be a financial penalty system put in place to clamp down on unfair behaviour. a sufficient fine, say a starting fine of 100x the retail price of the goods being sold should be sufficiently large.

i remember going to a watch shop in mong kok a few months ago and the retailer tried to sell me a fake watch. i only wanted to buy real one, not fake. so i think there should be penalties in place to deter cheating retailers.

also how about real estate agents. how about regulating them as well. why are they allowed to pester me when i am walking in a shopping mall? how do i know what the real estate agent is telling me is true? the real estate agency sector should be regulated by the HKMA.

yours sincerely,
sl yung

