I am a university student and I am studying in BBA.

In order to maintain and improve the fairness in business environment, an effective controlling and monitoring system is essential.

I believe that Hong Kong should establish an authorized department or commission to monitoring the business activities. The Australian Competition Customer Commission acts as a role model allowing Hong Kong government to follow, which made great success in wining several cases in these past years.

Therefore, I believe that Hong Kong government should learn form ACCC to build up a well-structured and organized department to minimize the inequity, of course there is much more room to improve, Hong Kong government can base on the ACCC basic and fundamental framework to make any amendment in order to fit Hong Kong business environment.

So, the unfairness can be reduced by legislation and establishing effective department.

Thank you for hearing my advice.
